HARRODS FINE TEAS

Harrods Teas are of such excellence that, over exclusive tea tables, they are a subject of mutual congratulation and in more homely circles, an inexpensive luxury that no-one need forgo!

Harrods General Catalogue, 1929 For Harrods, it all started with tea.

In 1834, Charles Henry Harrod began trading as a tea dealer and grocer in London's East End, before opening a store in Knightsbridge in 1849.

Selling and serving the finest teas has been a core part of Harrods' heritage. Over the centuries, we have preserved the visionary spirit of our founder by maintaining exacting standards and stocking only the finest teas in the world.

All teas come from the same plant, camellia sinensis, with different varieties according to the region of provenance.

Classification – black, green, blue (oolong) or white – is determined by how the leaves are picked and processed. Every stage of this complex operation contributes to the final taste – though the main difference is created by the oxidation level applied to the leaves. The final product represents the expertise and skills we have gained.

Picked and processed in the cool of the night by the master growers at Okayti tea garden, the leaves are allowed to wither for just four to five hours to retain their characteristic softness and physical beauty Light.

GREEN TEAS

To make green tea, freshly picked leaves are pan-fired (Chinese method) or steamed (Japanese method) at a temperature hot enough to inhibit the natural oxidation process and retain the richness of the fresh leaves. This ensures distinctive and sophisticated tasting notes with major health benefits due to the high level of antioxidants and active elements.

WHITE TEAS

White tea is the least processed type of tea and requires selective picking of the best young buds. The name is said to come from the appearance of the fine white 'down' on the unopened leaves of the buds. It is the most delicate in taste and has more antioxidants than other teas.

No. 230 White Peony FUJIAN, CHINA..... QAR 40

Produced by the Heng Yuan Chun tea farm in the mountains outside the city of Fuding, this high-quality white tea is created with the first bud and two leaves from the peony plant.

No. 51 Silver Needle FUJIAN, CHINA..... QAR 45

Silver Needle is China's finest white tea. Its perfect downy buds are picked and sun-dried in April, in the Fujian mountains. In August, the tea is laid beneath a bed of fresh jasmine flowers for seven consecutive nights, marrying the sweet white tea with a fresh, fragrant jasmine aroma.

No. 101 Flowering Jasmine & Lily ANHUI, CHINA..... QAR 40

This refreshing tea is not only rich in antioxidants, it's also a pleasure to the eye when served in a glass teapot. In contact with hot water, the handcrafted bulb blossoms to reveal beautiful orange lily petals and sweet jasmine flowers.

OOLONG TEAS

Oolong teas span a broad spectrum of colours, between green and black, determined by the level of oxidation of the leaf – a process that is carried out repeatedly, sometimes over the course of days, creating a beautiful layering – or 'painting' – of aroma and flavour. Oolongs typically have a more complex flavour than green or white teas; with very smooth, soft astringency, they are rich in floral or fruity flavours, making them ideal for those new to tea drinking.

No. 223 Arishan Tai Milk Oolong NANTOU COUNTY, TAIWAN QAR 40

Handpicked from the cultivators grown in the mountains of a region famous for its production of high-quality oolong. It produces a floral aroma with a pleasant milky flavour that is enhanced by light roasting.

Produced since 1885, wen shan pouchong is also known as 'wrapped tea'. Made using a traditional technique of placing the leaves in paper during the drying process, it delivers a beautiful floral fragrance and a rich, melony flavour. We recommend it served in a traditional Chinese gongfu ceremony.
